

Dancing Star Foundation Presents:

HOTSPOTS

It's on everyone's mind The Earth.
Everybody's talking about it....

Disappearing species
Loss of habitat
Is this the end of the world?

Not according to Dr. Russell Mittermeier,
Commander in Chief at Conservation International in Washington, D.C. A team of scientists who have saved more precious habitat worldwide than any other organization.
They know the secret to turning this crisis around

But it's a War

A war to save tens-of-thousands of species, and the 35 most biologically valuable places on the planet.
Those places that scientists now call

HOTSPOTS

Twenty years of research

Three years of filming

Discoveries unknown to science

From the frontlines of the conservation battles to save the planet.
